

La Salle Academy makes an IMPACT

La Salle Academy's families struggle financially and make an average of $18,975 per year. Despite the odds, over 92% of our students have graduated from high school or obtained their GED. 60 of our La Salle Academy graduates are attending various Catholic, Private and Public High Schools. Of the 128 students who have graduated from LSA and their respective high schools: over 21% graduated from, or are attending, a four-year college or university; over 20% have graduated from, or are attending, a two-year college; 7% are serving in the military and over 31% are employed and working full time.

Currently, La Salle Academy graduates are attending Arcadia University, Bryn Mawr College, Cabrini University, Community College of Philadelphia, Immaculata University, La Roche University, La Salle University, Penn State University, Saint Joseph's University, Swarthmore College, Temple University, Thomas Jefferson University, University of the Sciences, Villanova University, Widener University, and West Chester University.

Our LSA family knows that education is the key to breaking the cycle of poverty.

Our Mission

La Salle Academy is an independent, Catholic school owned by the Board of Trustees and run in the traditions of the Christian Brothers and Sisters of Saint Joseph. LSA is dedicated to educating children whose life opportunities are limited by financial, academic or social challenges, and whose parents/guardians desire, but can not afford, a Catholic education.

Our Model

La Salle Academy's model provides a small class size, an Extended Day and Year, and the academic, social, and spiritual support necessary for students to become successful people and lifelong learners. LSA students and graduates are aware of their own self-worth and will be of service to the communities in which they live.
